

Types of media production

Across

1. the process of creating, recording, editing, mixing, and producing sound for media products.
2. media media products that are physically printed onto paper and distributed to audiences.
4. the process of creating digital media products that allow users to actively interact with the content rather than simply watch or listen to it.

Down

1. the process of creating moving images from drawings, computer graphics, models, or digital characters to produce animated media content.
3. the process of planning, creating, recording, editing, and producing video content for an audience.